

An Educational, Interactive, Amazing Experience for K-6 Students Write On!

Angela L. Glover, author of Ethan Eats Hot Lunch (2017 Farfallina Press, pictures by award winning illustrator Bruce Arant) entertains and engages K-6 students with an informative presentation that provides an opportunity to learn about the process of writing a picture book. Presentations are tailored to meet audience needs and utilize National Writing Project Guidelines, State Standards, and the Six Traits of Writing. Glover, certified to teach K-6 NE and a Nebraska Arts Council Artist in the School, offers both a Writer's Workshop and a Revision and Editing Workshop for large or small groups of students in addition to readings and signings.

Ethan Eats Hot Lunch

About the Author:

Angela L. Glover's first picture book, Ethan Eats Hot Lunch is based on thirty-plus years of teaching writing to elementary and college-age students (K-6 NE certified). After teaching elementary aged students, she was the Director of Education at the Omaha Children's Museum before going on to complete her Ph.D. at The University of Kansas. When she's not writing or teaching writing, she's thinking about what's for lunch. Glover lives in Omaha, Nebraska.

Contact Information:

Angela L. Glover, Ph.D.
402-213-7986
theotherlunchlady@gmail.com
ethangoestoschool.com

Review: "Glover's first picture book is engaging, charming, and entertaining. Ethan Eats Hot Lunch is representative of the universal hot lunch routine children are inducted into upon entering school. The book introduces young learners to the social constructs necessary for eating in a community while playfully acknowledging the curiosity that surrounds the idea of eating together. Arant's illustrations enhance Glover's words with affable characters based on Glover's former students. Ethan Eats Hot Lunch speaks to readers of all ages."

Rhonda Fielder-Long
School Librarian

Workshop Menu:

Mix 'N Match to meet your organization's needs.

Writer's Workshop (K-2) (3-6) Large or Small Groups
Students identify and apply the six traits of writing to Ethan Eats Hot Lunch and then participate in the writing process by Using the "how to get started" process with their own story idea. We will focus on character development, showing vs. telling, and descriptive word choice.

Revision & Editing Workshop (K-2) (3-6)
Large or Small Groups
Students practice using revision strategies and the six traits of writing after being introduced to how the writing process was used to create Ethan Eats Hot Lunch. Once their draft is complete, we will apply the editing process in order to work toward a final draft.

Specific Grade Level Workshop (3-6)
This workshop addresses The Six Traits of writing—ideas, organization, voice, word choice, sentence fluency, conventions. Throughout the workshop, I use Ethan Eats Hot Lunch to model how the writing process works and how it can be applied to student writing, revising, and editing. I also conference with students one-on-one and in small groups giving feedback on their work. (One hour per class suggested).

Residency (K-6)

Week long residencies can be designed for your school/grade level needs.

<http://www.artscouncil.nebraska.gov/artist-roster/overview.html>

NEBRASKA ARTS COUNCIL

Receive a FREE copy of Ethan Eats Hot Lunch (18.99 value) signed specifically for your school's library when you schedule Angela L. Glover for a full day school visit.